Our 16th Annual Regional Team Summit is a time to gather together, share innovative tools for managing stress, making meaning from the trauma, and discovering a net of connection and mutual support. Join us to:

- ◆ Explore Challenges and Successes for CISM Teams
- ◆ Create and Establish Mutual Aid Agreements
- ◆ Delineate Specific Disciplines and Specific Response Needs

- Join us for a day of mutual learning and sharing of resources and information
- Hear the latest information from the International Critical Incident Stress Foundation
 - Refreshments and lunch will be provided

The Bay Area CISM Team has been in existence for 32 years, and is a part of the Centre for Living with Dying program of Bill Wilson Center. The Bay Area CISM Team provides support, education and intervention for responders, professional caregivers and the community on the issues of stress management, grief, loss, change and recovery after a critical incident.

Definition of Critical Incident: Any event or experience that impacts you, either immediately or in the aftermath.

“Behind our roles we are all just human beings.”

“Stress Management is not a luxury, it is necessary for survival.”

“It is never too late to respond.”
